If you are healthy and between the ages of 18 and 35, you may be eligible to participate in a research study conducted by University of Southern California investigators examining how genes and emotions influence response to medications. Participation involves taking a FDA approved drug that may affect mood on two occasions, as well as completing interviews and questionnaires.

Compensation is Available

To learn more about the study, call (323) 442-2598.

University of Southern California